Starting the Conversation
How do people remember the past or important events in their lives?
How do memorials help people to remember the past or important events in history?

Remembering
Pictures are often how people remember the important events in their lives. Memorials, such as murals, sculptures or monuments are meant to honor and remember important events or people.

Family Time
As a family explore the African American memorials provided in these links. Discuss the history behind each memorial or research more to learn about a memorial you are not familiar with.
